EGON MÜLLER - MOSEL-SAAR-RUWER

Since 1797, the Müller family has been producing wine in Germany's Mosel-Saar-Ruwer region when Jean-Jacques Koch bought the Scharzhof farm from the French government just after the Revolution. It is on this site where the Domaine's cellar still stands and where the sixth and seventh generations of the Müller family live today.

The Rieslings from Egon Müller are widely recognized as among the best in Germany and arguably the world. Egon Müller has just under 8.5 hectares of vines in the world-famous Scharzhofberg vineyard, which includes three hectares of ungrafted Riesling vines from the 19th century. The vineyards are exposed to a northerly climate, making for wines that are dependent on late harvesting an optimal vintage condition. The Müller family philosophy is that the best wines are the ones that "make themselves."

One of the crown jewels of Egon Müller's portfolio is the Scharzhofberger TBA (Trockenbeerenauslese), which stands as the most expensive white wine in the world upon release, crafted only in vintages when the ideal conditions align. This highly sought-after wine is made from individually hand-picked botrytized grapes, selected in a painstaking process to ensure only the finest quality inThe Scharzhofberger TBA is a testament to Müller's dedication to producing wines of unparalleled excellence.

Egon Müller is a respected winemaker and holds a special status in the wine world. He is the only German member of the Primum Familiae Vini, an association of twelve of the world's most prestigious wine-producing families. This distinction speaks to the exceptional quality and reputation of Müller's wines.

With their commitment to tradition, exceptional vineyard holdings, and uncompromising winemaking practices, Egon Müller and his family have rightfully earned their place among the elite producers of Riesling. Year after year, these wines continue to captivate wine enthusiasts and collectors alike, as one of the world's most esteemed and sought-after wines.

CHÂTEAU BÉLA, BELÁ, SLOVAKIA BY EGON MÜLLER & MIROSLAV PETRECH

Since Slovakia declared independence in 1993, the past three decades have witnessed a profound transformation in winemaking, ushering in a new generation of vintners crafting a captivating assortment of wines using a blend of international and traditional grape varieties. Among these, one standout is Château Belá.

Nestled in the enchanting wine region of Južnoslovenská in southern Slovakia, Château Belá stands as a true hidden gem. Its captivating story begins at the magnificent 18th-century Château Belá estate, a place steeped in charm and rich history. Perched high above the majestic Danube River, within the heart of Southern Slovakia's esteemed wine region, this vineyard was brought back to life in 2000.

Countess Ilona von Krockow, the visionary owner, joined forces with the renowned German winemaker and cherished family friend, Egon Müller. Together, they embarked on an ambitious mission -- to put Slovak Riesling on the global wine map.

In 2001, they undertook renovating the cellar, a testament to the vineyard's enduring legacy of 300 years. To ensure the highest level of excellence, they called on the expertise of the admired winemaker Miroslav Petrech.

With their combined passion and craftsmanship, Château Belá has become a beacon of winemaking brilliance, producing some of Slovakia's most extraordinary Rieslings, indigenous, and traditional varietals.

UNTERLIND - MOSEL

Established in 2019 by the visionary duo of Heiner Bollig and Veronika Bollig-Linter, Weingut UNTERLIND is dedicated to crafting exceptional Rieslings that embody the Mosel Valley's unique essence. Embracing a minimalistic approach, they create wines that epitomize the region's true character.

UNTERLIND's journey began with leasing three small parcels in the renowned Trittenheimer Apotheke vineyard. The inaugural 2020 vintage garnered widespread acclaim, setting the stage for its promising future. Building on this success, Heiner and Veronika took ownership of 1.8 hectares of vineyards in Trittenheim, Brauenberg, and Leiwen in 2020, following Heiner's father's retirement.

While UNTERLIND may be considered a newcomer in the wine world, its youthful energy and modern approach have quickly captivated enthusiasts. Heiner and Veronika's unwavering vision is to create classic Prädikatswein, a style that they believe perfectly captures the region's essence like no other.

As UNTERLIND continues to evolve and establish its place in the Mosel wine scene, its dedication to quality and its commitment to showcasing the true potential of Riesling shines through in every bottle.

Upholding tradition while welcoming innovation, Heiner and Veronika craft wines with passion, craftsmanship, and tireless pursuit of excellence.

SZEPSY – TOKAJI

The Szepsy family's legacy dates back to the 16th century. With ancestral roots firmly planted in the fertile soils of the Tokaj region in Hungary, the family has flourished, leaving an indelible mark on the world of winemaking. In a pivotal moment that would shape their destiny, a visionary ancestor of the Szepsy family crafted one of the first known "Aszú" wines in 1631. This extraordinary creation was hailed by none other than by King Louis XV as the "wine of kings and the king of wines."

This delectably sweet elixir quickly became the object of desire for wine aficionados across the globe, cementing the Szepsy family's stature as masters of their craft. Almost 300 years later, István Sr. dedicated himself to restoring their vineyards and region following the collapse of communism in 1990. As a member of the 18th generation, István Jr, the current torchbearer, is now following his father's pursuit of crafting world-class dry wines.

The Szepsy family proudly carries forward their legacy with each bottle they produce. They blend tradition, innovation, meticulous craftsmanship, and a profound respect for their vineyards to create a range of wines that pay homage to their illustrious past and inspire future generations of winemakers to transcend boundaries and explore the full potential of the Tokaj region.

BARTON FAMILY WINES

CHÂTEAU LANGOA BARTON - SAINT-JULIEN 3ÈME GRAND CRU CLASSÉ

CHÂTEAU LÉOVILLE BARTON - SAINT-JULIEN 2ÈME GRAND CRU CLASSÉ

The Bartons are an extraordinary family with roots in Ireland and a strong connection to the Bordeaux region in France.
Their story begins in the 18th century when Thomas Barton, a trader from Ireland, fell in love with the world of wine during his visit to France. Thomas established his first company in Bordeaux, eventually becoming the renowned Barton & Guestier we know today.

Thomas quickly became the leading Bordeaux trader, attracting loyal clients from all over Europe. However, escheatage prevented him from owning his own vineyard until 1819, when this policy was abolished.

Finally, in 1821, Thomas's grandson, Hugh Barton, seized the opportunity and purchased Château Langoa. He later expanded the family's holdings by acquiring a portion of the Léoville estate in 1825. Jumping ahead to the 20th century, we find Ronald Barton taking charge of Château Langoa and Léoville Barton. Under his wise leadership, these vineyards flourished. Ronald dedicated himself to restoring the vineyards and reviving their reputation, which had suffered during the challenging times of World War II. Since Ronald had no children, he passed on the domain and trade house to his nephew Anthony, ensuring the family's remarkable legacy would endure. In the historic 1855 classification, both Léoville Barton and Langoa Bar-ton ranked second and third in classified growth, respectively.

These magnificent châteaux are situated on gravelly soil with a clayey subsoil, covering an impressive 50 and 17 hectares of land. The primary grape varieties grown here are 75% Cabernet Sauvignon and 25% Merlot, with Langoa also incorporating a touch of Cabernet Franc. Léoville Barton, on the other hand. consists of 55% Cabernet Sauvignon and 35% Merlot. The Barton family places great importance on maintaining a significant portion of old vines, replanting only 2 hectares per year to ensure consistent quality and the distinct character of Saint Julien's Cabernets.

In 2011, Barton Family Wines acquired Château Mauvesin, which was named Château Mauvesin Barton. Situated in the picturesque Moulis-en-Médoc region, this estate covers an impressive 220 hectares.

Sadly, Anthony Barton passed away in 2021, leaving behind an extraordinary legacy. The management of these prestigious estates has now been entrusted to his daughter, Lilian. With great honor and responsibility, Lilian passionately represents the châteaus in France and beyond. Moreover, the younger generation, Barton-Sartorius, composed of Damien and his sister Melanie, are the proud descendants of Thomas Barton, who arrived in Bordeaux in 1725 and laid the foundation of this wine dynasty. Their parents, Lilian Barton-Sartorius and Michel Sartorius, have passed on the family's rich winemaking traditions to their children, making them the 10th generation to carry this remarkable legacy into the future.

BARTON & JOYEUX

Barton & Joyeux is fundamentally a tale of friendship that began in 2014 when Damien Barton Sartorius and Benjamin Joyeux were students in Bordeaux. Despite diverse backgrounds, their bond formed through the school's enology association. Fueled by a mutual passion for wine, this connection became the cornerstone of the project.

Barton & Joyeux proudly showcases a range of wines from producers committed to sustainable viticulture. Their collaboration with these winegrowers ensures high-quality wines crafted with environmentally friendly practices. They firmly believe that the excellence of their wines is shaped by the ecological and responsible methods embraced by their partner producers. The curated wines and the represented winegrowers are meticulously selected based on these cherished, shared values.

INITIO refers to the Latin expression "Ad InitilNITIO refers to the Latin expression "Ad Initio," literally "to the origin," and refers to the very source of the product: the soil, the plant, the grapes, the climate ... in a word, the terroir.

Behind a simple and clearly identifiable label, INITIO dedicates its efforts to showing the wine grower's work by refusing to offer products from different properties' blendings. They aim to underline a commitment to sustainable viticulture by prioritizing quality over quantity.

Pinot Noir - Phillipe Girard

Savignon Blanc - Benoit DuBourg

CHÂTEAU LAROZE SAINT-ÉMILION GRAND CRU CLASSÉ

Ensconced in the scenic vineyards of Saint-Emilion, Château Laroze holds a truly exceptional treasure within its walls. With a remarkable 400-year history, this family-owned winery is not just a property but a testament to the rich heritage of Saint-Emilion.

Guy Meslin, the owner of Château Laroze, serves as its devoted guardian. Spread across 27 hectares of lush vineyards, surrounded by a stunning 2-hectare park filled with majestic trees; the estate features a magnificent mansion built in the elegant Napoleon III style of the 19th century. The vineyards, located at the base of the slope just 1.5 km northwest of the historic village of Saint-Emilion, boast a unique blend of siliceous and clayey soils, contributing to the wines' graceful subtlety and complexity. Château Laroze proudly cultivates five grape varieties: Merlot, Cabernet Franc, Cabernet Sauvignon, Malbec, and Petit Verdot. Each grape imparts its distinct character to the wines, producing a truly exceptional product. Since its first classification in 1955, Château Laroze has held the respected title of Saint-Emilion Grand Cru Classé, reflecting its status as a historic and revered producer in the region.

In addition to Château Laroze, the estate also produces a second wine called La Fleur Laroze, also a Grand Cru Classé. This wine showcases a more modest complexity than its counterpart, achieved by carefully blending 70% Classé Merlot with 30% Cabernet Franc. This allows for a customized winemaking process and appropriate aging techniques. With its enticing aromas and a talent for aging gracefully, it has earned its place among other celebrated Saint-Emilion Grand Crus, further establishing the legacy of Château Laroze.

CHÂTEAU DOYAC HAUT-MÉDOC CRU BOURGEOIS SUPÉRIEUR

Château Doyac, a distinguished Cru Bourgeois in Haut-Médoc, made history in 2019 by obtaining its first-ever biodynamic certification. The award of this globally recognized DEMETER certification marked a meaningful new direction for the de Pourtalès family estate's winemaking practices, and elevated Château Doyac to the esteemed category of prestigious biodynamic château within the Cru Bourgeois du Médoc. The DEMETER certification sets rigorous standards, including natural cycles like the lunar cycle and the use of herbal teas derived from minerals and plants. By rejuvenating the soil's vitality, these practices provide the energy necessary for the vines to develop their natural defenses.

The story of Château Doyac began in 1998 when Max de Pourtalès, returning to his Bordeaux roots, acquired the château located in the Haut-Médoc appellation.

Max de Pourtalès' philosophy shapes the personality of Château Doyac, emphasizing the creation of refined and elegant wines that maintain balance and freshness. Working alongside a dedicated team and guided by renowned oenologists Eric Boissenot and Marco Balsimelli, Max and Astrid de Pourtalès carefully blend their wines each year to honor the vintage and reveal the unique identity of Château Doyac. With the biodynamic certification, Château Doyac has embarked on a journey that combines tradition, innovation, and a deep respect for the vine ecosystem.

LAND OF PROMISE

Founded in 1999 by Charles and Diana Karren, Terra de Promissio produces ultra-premium Sonoma Coast Pinot Noirs of great distinction and character. Terra de Promissio is now the most vineyard-designated pinot noir in Sonoma
County with over ten wineries, including Williams Selyem, Garry Farrell, Senses, and
The Calling, making Terra de Promissio vineyard-designated wines. The wines produced from this vineyard have received numerous accolades and awards, including the Wine Spectator Wine of the Year in 2011 for the 2009 Kosta Browne Sonoma Coast.

Diana oversaw the planting and still manages the vineyard and leads the harvest crew today. Beginning with the 2013 vintage, Diana began making small lot wines for herself. She named the wine Land of Promise because it is a story of an immigrant family pursuing the American dream, with hard work and sacrifices made along the way to create something that would endure beyond their lifetime. Land of Promise started with only 100 cases, and each year, it has grown. Today, Diana makes four Sonoma Coast Pinot Noirs, all sourced from her vineyard.
